NPC Announces 2017-19 Fraternity/Sorority Advisory Committee Members

INDIANAPOLIS — The National Panhellenic Conference (NPC) has announced seven fraternity/sorority advisors from different college and university campuses across the United States who will serve on the 2017-19 NPC Fraternity/Sorority Advisor (FSA) Advisory Committee. The FSA Advisory Committee provides NPC with feedback and recommendations on campus issues impacting students and fraternal communities.

NPC Chairman Carole Jones said, “As we work toward creating the kind of campus culture we aspire to build everywhere, this committee will provide us with information to help shape new services to our College Panhellenics as well as to campus professionals and other volunteers who work with sorority women. We are grateful for the service of these dedicated campus professionals and the valuable advice this committee puts forth.”

2017-19 NPC FSA Advisory Committee members include:

- Brian Clarke, director of Greek Life, University of California-Irvine
- John DiSarro, director of Fraternity and Sorority Affairs, University of Rochester
- Ashley Fitzpatrick, assistant director of Greek Life, Baylor University
- Reggie Lane, associate director of Sorority and Fraternity Affairs, University of Florida
- John Mountz, director of Greek Life, East Carolina University
- Jennifer Pierce, assistant director - Panhellenic Council, University of Tennessee-Knoxville
- Dustin Wolfe, assistant director of Student Involvement, University of Nebraska-Omaha

The NPC Executive Committee hosted a luncheon for the newly appointed FSA Advisory Committee while in Atlanta at the Association of Fraternity/Sorority Advisors (AFA) annual meeting.

Going forward, NPC FSA Advisory Committee members will engage with NPC in quarterly discussions with the NPC Executive Committee and staff on campus trends and hot topics, as well as serve as brand ambassadors for NPC.
